

Abstract

Disclosed is a roof opening system comprising at least one transparent or partly transparent vehicle cover (1) and at least one shade element (2) which independently of each other are movable in different positions. The roof opening system is characterized in that the movements are clearly made possible by only one electric drive (4). A manual operation of the at least one shade element (2) is not required.

Fig. 2a